DEPARTMENTS.

The Studies in the Teachers' Department are Orthography, Etymology, Reading, Penmanship, Book Keeping, Arithmetic, Algebra, Practical Geometry, English Grammar, Geography, History, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Chemistry, Elements of Geology, Physiology and the Laws of Health, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Civil Polity, Political Economy, Constitution of the U. S. and of Ohio, and the Science of Teaching.

The TEXT BOOKS are Town's Analysis, Webster's Dictionary, Porter's Reader, Robinson and Adams' Arithmetics, Brown's Grammar, Morse's Geography, Young's Civil Government, Comstock's Philosophy, Gray's Chemistry, Mather's Geology, Davies' Elementary Algebra and Practical Geometry, Lee's Physiology, Wayland's Moral Science, Mahan's Mental Philosophy, Burritt's Geography of the Heavens, Worcester's History, Willson's U. S. History, Boyd's Rhetoric, Hedge's Logic, and the School and School Master.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

The Students in this Department have an opportunity to pursue any of the Studies in the Teachers' Department, together with Surveying, Algebra, Geometry, Botany, Drawing, and the Latin, Greek and French Languages. The Text Books used are Davies' Surveying, Bourdon's Algebra, Legendre's Geometry, Lincoln's Botany, Andrews' Latin Grammar and Reader, Anthon's Cæsar, Cicero, and Sallust, Cooper's Virgil, Sophocles's Greek Grammar, Anthon's Jacobs' Greek Reader, Greek Testament, Leverett and Donnegan's Lexicons, Anthon's Classical Dictionary, Adams' Antiquities, Eschenburg's Manual, Levizac's Grammar, Telemachus, Charles Twelth, La Henriade, Boyer's or Surenne's Dictionary. The instruction in this Department is thorough and practical, and the course sufficiently extensive to prepare students well for College, or to give them such a knowledge of the Latin and Greek as will be necessary for those preparing for a profession.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

This Department is designed for the younger and less advanced students: the studies are Orthography and Lexicology, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, mental and written, English Grammar, Geography, and History. The students are under the constant supervision of the Teacher.

PRIMARY EEPARTMENT.

This Department is designed for Children from four to ten years of age. The branches taught are Spelling, with definitions, &c., Reading, Mental Arithmetic, Elements of Geography and History. The scholars are under the constant supervision of an experienced Female Teacher.

FEMALE DEPARTMENT.

In addition to the supervision and instruction of the Teachers in this Department, the young ladies receive instruction in classes with gentlemen, under the tuition of the other Teachers, and also have the opportunity of attending lectures, and all the public exercises of the Seminary.

LITERARY SOCIETIES, &C.

A weekly Lyceum is sustained by the young gentlemen. The meetings of the Society of Enquiry are held semi-monthly, in the exercises of which the Teachers and pupils of both Departments participate. The young ladies have also a Social Union for mutual improvement.

The afternoon of Wednesday in each week is devoted to Declamation and Composition in all the Departments.

LECTURES.

Lectures will be given on Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, English Grammar and Rhetoric, Physical Geography and Geology, Political Economy and Civil Polity, History and Chronology, and the science and art of Teaching. Many of the subjects, mentioned in the course of studies, must for the present be taught by familiar Lectures. These, together with the reviews by questions, have been found of great utility. In connection with the Lectures on Teaching, a Teachers' Lyceum is held for the purpose of discussing the best methods of teaching the various branches, governing and managing schools.

During the latter part of the Fall term, most of the regular recitations are suspended, and the time is occupied by a course of instruction similar to that pursued in TEACHERS' INSTITUTES. Those who are not members of the Institution are invited to attend this course without charge for tuition.

Beside the common branches, the course embraces Lectures on Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Chemistry, Physiology, the Science of Government, and Political Economy.

LIBRARY AND APPARATUS.

The institution is furnished with a Library of a few hundred volumes for general reading. The Library of the "TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION" contains most of the valuable works on education, published in this country. The Library of TEXT BOOKS, (which are loaned to students for a small sum per term,) contains from ten to forty copies of Morse's Geography, Boyd's Rhetoric, and each of the works on Mathematics adopted from "DAVIES' COURSE."

"MITCHELL'S OUTLINE MAPS," "THE NORMAL CHART," "TOWN'S CHART OF ELEMENTARY SOUNDS," LYMAN'S HISTORICAL CHART," and a limited, but well selected Apparatus, obtained for use rather than show, add to the facilities for teaching and illustrating the several branches.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The moral and religious instruction of the Students is considered of paramount importance. The members of all the Departments assemble in the chapel, morning and evening, for devotional exercises; and students spending the Sabbath in town are expected to attend public worship.

LOCATION.

The Seminary is located in the village of Kirtland, Lake Co., two and a half miles from the great thoroughfare from Buffalo to Detroit, nine and a half miles from Painesville, and twenty-two miles from Cleveland. The situation is pleasant, and as healthy as any on the Reserve.

BOARD.

The price of board in good families varies from $1,00 to $1, 25 per week; board with contingencies from $1,25 to $1,75. A large number of the students have boarded themselves, and reduced the expenses to 75 cents per week, or even less. A sufficient number of rooms, conveniently situated for this purpose, can be rented at a reasonable rate, and in this respect, the facilities afforded by the place are, probably, unsurpassed.
